datadrip

Powering Business Through Data

Data can be a powerful tool for businesses, but without the right strategy, knowledge, and implementation, it simply becomes noise.

That's where DataDrip comes in

As a data and analytics consultancy, we help companies take their data and turn it into meaningful insights they can use to solve complex business problems.

> "Information is the oil of the 21st century, and analytics is the combustion engine."
> ~ Peter Sondergaard, Senior Vice President and Global Head of Research at Gartner, Inc

About Us

At DataDrip, we're proud to offer over 55 years of senior leadership, knowledge and experience, supported by an extended team of over 100 business and data experts.

With experience working across the most cutting-edge tools and technologies in the data management space, this allows our services to span the entire data pipeline.

It is this level of service and expertise, paired with our business knowledge and experience, that sets DataDrip far apart from competitors, able to offer world-class consultancy and seamless implementation at a fraction of the cost of other suppliers or even an in-house team.

Services

- Data Strategy
- Data Management
- Data Analytics
- Custom Integrations
- Data Engineering

Why DataDrip

We understand both data and business

Our team of experts have an acute understanding of both data and business, which allows us to look beyond the data and towards the big picture; factoring in overarching business goals and, ultimately, the bottom line.

We're highly experienced with the modern data stack

Our comprehensive data services help organizations adopt modern data stacks that seamlessly and efficiently integrate with existing business systems. Whether looking to modernize your data infrastructure, improve efficiency and scalability, or leverage your data better, we can help you achieve your goals.
We have extensive experience working with the most cutting-edge tools and technologies

Which allows our services to span the entire data pipeline.

We partner with organisations to drive project and client success

Through collaboration and working hand-in-hand with teams, we get a deep understanding of business goals which enables us to realise positive results and long-term success for our clients.

Companies with advanced data analytics capabilities were five times as likely to make decisions faster than market peers.
(Bernard Marr & Co, 2021)

Using data, Netflix saves $1 billion per year on customer retention.
(TechJury, 2021)

83% of enterprise executives say they've pursued data projects to gain a competitive advantage.
(Forbes, 2018)

Powering Business Through Data

For organisations that rely on data, DataDrip is your team of expert business and data consultants who transform data into tangible insights, which lead to practical actions that drive business growth and operations at every level.

www.datadrip.com   sales@datadrip.com